De Brueys: Gaming success equals crime growth

Law enforcement authority warns residents of negative results

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

As gaming ventures grow and succeed, so does crime, law enforcement authority Warren de Brueys forewarned Wednesday night during a public meeting.

A former executive director of the Metropolitan Crime Commission in New Orleans and retired Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) agent, de Brueys was invited by the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission to speak on the identification of areas of concern relating to gaming and crime.

Over and over he emphasized the extent of crime problems to be directly related to the extent of casino successes.

"You do not know yet if even one casino will succeed."

De Brueys said the county needed to take into account how much of its tourism comes from New Orleans, and the affect of the passage of open gaming in that city on the local projected gaming activity.

"A lot depends on what happens in New Orleans."

Though de Brueys readily admitted to not possessing a "crystal ball," he assured everyone present that "if you don't have gambling in New Orleans, then the casino interests from Atlantic City and Las Vegas will look to the Gulf Coast; and you can kiss everything goodbye you have cherished."

De Brueys expressed a deep mistrust of mob influence within the gaming industry.

Citing incidents from memory, de Brueys spoke about the history of Las Vegas and its mob-influenced birth.

He told of a casino owner who innocently accept investments and later was muscled out of his property through threat of life.

De Brueys, speaking out to the audience, petitioned those who will run the casinos to "spend the money on extensive background checks."

He said mob linkage exist in every support area of the industry from bartenders and waitresses' unions to linen contractors.

Generally, de Brueys repeated the natural union of money and crime.

"Criminal groups are attracted to the megabucks of casino gambling.

"They (criminals) rush to those areas and try to prey on those with extra money."

He said the residents of Hancock County should expect an increase in "every type of violent crime."

Crime Commission meeting, other topics discussed at Tourism and Gaming meeting

BY TRACI BONNEY

"Disappointment" was the word used in reaction to Wednesday's town meeting during the Touring and Gaming Association meeting Thursday.

T&GA member Jim Henrie, in a brief report on the Wednesday evening meeting sponsored by the Coast Crime Commission, said his reaction was negative.

"I was disappointed with both the content of the speaker's remarks and the Crime Commission's persistence in going through with the meeting even after they knew the situation over here."

Henrie said meeting speaker Warren de Brueys, who talked of the possible increase in crime associated with dockside gambling in Hancock County, from his remarks was obviously against gaming and could not say anything positive about it, even when asked point-blank. Henrie remarked, "I think it was very clear what his position was. But it's (the meeting is) behind us, and I think we need to go on."

Other gaming-related topics discussed at the Thursday T&GA meeting included a Wednesday meeting between association members and Mississippi Gaming Commission executive director Royal P. Walker Jr., and the probable legalization of riverboat gambling in Louisiana.

Of the meeting with Walker, Jerry Fisher said he was impressed with the director. "I think he'll do a good job," Fisher commented.

He mentioned gaming com-

State gaming commission moving on schedule — Walker

BY TRACI BONNEY

With a chief investigator due to join the staff July 22, and plans to move into offices this weekend, the state Gaming Commission is working on schedule, according to commission director Royal P. Walker.

The commission recently hired Bruce Nourse as chief investigator. Nourse, a 40-year-old Biloxi native, has 16 years experience in gaming operation, regulation and control in Las Vegas, Reno and Crystal Bay, Nevada. Prior to that time, he worked for two years in Biloxi as assistant manager of Associates Financial Services.

Nourse, a 1964 Eagle Scout, graduated from Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College, Perkinston campus, in 1971 with an associate's degree and the University of Mississippi in 1973 with a bachelor of business administration. He did post-graduate work at Keesler Air Force Base toward a master's of business administration.

Walker said Friday, "We really look forward to Bruce joining the team. I think he will bring gaming experience to the job."

"When I was appointed director, I pledged to go out and find the technical people to run this office correctly. I think Bruce is one of the technical personnel we need."

The commission is nearly ready to submit its rules and regulations to the commissioners for study before public review begins, Walker said.

Meanwhile, the commission has begun some preliminary investigation work on the two groups that have submitted applications for gaming licenses. Walker said one of those groups is Casino Enterprises, Inc., known locally as Bayou Caddy Inc.

Bayou Caddy Inc. is planning to open a 24-hour dockside casino at Bayou Cadet.

Walker said, "We hope to have recommendations on the first two applicants the latter part of September."

One thing Walker emphasized about the commission was its purpose. "Our job is not to advocate one way or the other about gaming. Our job is to protect the people by making sure the gaming operators are in line and in compliance with the laws passed by the state legislature."

Base work underway on ASRM test stand

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Far back in the dense pines of the John C. Stennis Space Center, about 230 acres have been cleared of standing timber.

Piles of grub and stumps dot the vast muddy emptiness.

Way off to one end, are a few pieces of heavy equipment, slowly moving in steady progress.

Odd groups of pilings stand with metal beams attached.

Trenches of mud line the active area resembling levees along a river bank.

The work is underway.

Richard Harmon, construction manager for National Industrial Constructors Inc. (NIC) explains that the $50-million Advanced Solid Rocket Motor (ASRM) testing facility will actually sit on "30 or so" acres of the entire clearing.

"It will be low to the ground, not tall, but stretching wide and long."

Harmon described a flat bed, 30 feet wide and 130 feet long. A wall will rise at the one end and a drop-off, called the ramp will begin at the opposite end. Here the rocket pieces will be assembled horizontally, with the nose pointing at the walled end. The ramp will extend far back until it reaches another wall but this time angularly shaped.

When the rocket is test fired, the exhaust will shoot back along the drop-off bed, and upon contact with the angular wall, become diverted in an upward direction.

The flat bed where the rocket will sit is called the testing stand and it is on this particular area ground preparation has just begun.

Harmon said within the area of the testing stand, two feet of top soil will be removed and replaced with a sturdier fill.

Odd pilings are place for testing of foundation stability which may or may not cause design alterations in engineering.

He pointed out a row of electrical poles, extending back into the woods from the testing stand area.

This, he said, was the main power line for the project which was installed within the past month.

An access road was planned to run along the course of the power lines, connecting NASA's existing testing area with the ASRM testing area about one mile away.

The control building for the ASRM project will be located in the existing testing area where monitoring will be conducted by video and computer readings.

The ASRM testing area is located near a canal inlet upon which the segments will be transported to the area by barge.

From here a large transport vehicle will move each of the three segments and nozzle to the testing stand.

Local guard unit expected to leave Saudi July 22

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Johnny can't come marching home just yet, but the boys will be back on good old American soil by July 22 when they fly into Alabama, reports various family members and armory custodian Jay Lagasse.

Lagasse said, "I heard the news from one of the fellows over there, so I'm pretty sure it is correct."

Carol North, the wife of Gulfview principal Donald North reports that she received word just this week that her husband would be leaving Saudi on the 22nd.

Mrs. North said the troops are supposed to fly to Alabama from Saudi and check-in at Fort Rucker.

She does not how much longer it will be before they can come home to the coast.

The 1355th Combat Support Company of the Mississippi National Guard is the combined units of Bay St. Louis and Ocean Springs.

The Coastal unit was activated just before Thanksgiving, 1990, and received training at Fort Rucker before being shipping to Saudi Arabia.

Angiography unit gives HMC means for vascular studies

BY TRACI BONNEY

The medical staff at Hancock Medical Center now has the means to conduct vascular studies, thanks to a $150,000 donation.

The grant, given by the Collins C. Diboll Private Foundation in memory of Joseph S. Copes, MD, was used in the purchase of an angiography unit.

Radiologist Jeanie Moran said the unit can be used to study arteries anywhere in the body. A catheter and contrast, an iodine dye that shows up on x-rays, are used to pinpoint the area to be studied.

The unit makes x-rays of the specified area, which the physician or surgeon can use in the diagnosis and treatment of ailments, from clogged arteries to cancerous tumors.

Moran said, "This unit gives us the opportunity to expand our services to the community, especially to our large older population. Because older people often have problems with their arteries, the angiography unit helps us to give them better treatment."

She added that the unit can assist in dealing with arterial problems that once might have resulted in the loss of a digit or limb by amputation because of infection.

The unit is computerized and

"It takes a team of five or six people to operate the unit," Moran said. "For that reason, we don't do emergency angio-grams at night right now; we don't have the staff at night to do them. However, that is something we want to be able to do in the future."

She added that the medical center doesn't perform studies on the heart because HMC doesn't have the staff at present to perform emergency heart surgery, should it be necessary.

Even though HMC may not make full use of the angiography unit's capabilities at this time, Moran said the staff is pleased and proud to have the unit.

"For a hospital this size, we offer a lot that you don't see in other smaller hospitals."

Port and Harbor approves payment for Road E and highway turn-in

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission approved payment of $29,491.50 to the county Monday for the asphalt of Road E and for the patching of the Highway 603 turn-in at Stennis Airport.

Road E is the road between the Hancock High School complex and the former Pearl River Vo-Tech Center, now the Hancock County Vo-Tech Center.

Road E has been a source of irritation to the high school students who had to cross the dirt road in order to attend classes at the vo-tech center and for the cars which had to drive through to reach the student parking lots behind the high school complex.

For many months, the problem with the turn-in from Highway 603 concerned determining whose responsibility it was to repair it.

Last fall the Port and Harbor Commission was to give Road E to the school district, repaired and paved, in exchange for the district's assuming maintenance of Road E along with the airport entrance road from the highway turn-in to the airport property line.

The commission, working with the help of the board of supervisors, enlisted the county street maintenance department to provide the base work. Due to excessive rains, the base work had been held back for several months and only recently completed.

The turn-in road from the highway was at first considered the property of the commission. The commission researched the area and discovered the turn-in to be the property of the county.

The board of supervisors meanwhile filled holes in the turn-in as needed, but held back on permanent repairs until they heard from the state concerning the widening of Hwy. 603.

When the state widens Hwy. 603, the turn-in will then become part of the highway and a new turn-in will have to be constructed, at state expense.

When it became obvious that it would be several more years before the Highway 603 project would become a reality, the county approached the commission for assistance in repairing the turn-in.

The Port and Harbor Commission agreed to include the asphalt or patching cost for the turn-in with the Road E work.

work. Again the county would supply the base preparation. The board of supervisors opened bids for the asphalt of Road E and the turn-in July 1. They accepted the low bid from Necaise Construction Company of Gulfport.

In other business the commission approved:

—payment of $5,230.80 to Cecil Jones & Associates for the part of the Airport Master Plan Update study which is to be submitted to the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) for compliance with federal grant requirements;

—a resolution authorizing the proper officers to advertise for annual bids for rail, ballast (rocks) and cross ties, as needed for the industrial park railway maintenance;

—the general operating, railroad operating, and industrial park revenue dockets;

—and the infrastructure improvement docket, which includes ongoing road and railroad improvements to comply with the addition of the Calgon Carbon Corp. plant.

Clermont firefighters make muddy rescue Wednesday

BY TRACI BONNEY
No one was injured, but just about everyone involved was a mess following a rescue performed Wednesday evening in the Clermont Harbor.

Jim Maness, chief of the Clermont Harbor/Lakeshore Fire Protection District, said the Clermont Harbor Volunteer Fire Department was called out to the harbor about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday to rescue Evelyn Bickman, who was stuck in the mud up to her waist.

Bickman and her granddaughter were paddling their small boat in the harbor when the tide went out faster than they expected, leaving the boat stranded in the mud.

Maness said, "Ms. Bickman attempted to use a small board as a walkway to pull their boat to deeper water about 25 feet from where they were stuck. Ms. Bickman slipped off the board and sank in the mud up to her waist."

"Because of her remote location, it was at least 30 minutes before someone answered her calls for help and called 911.

"Within a few minutes assistant chief Jerry Edwards arrived on the scene with the CHVFD small fire truck.

"Chief Charles Jackson instructed the additional arriving firefighters to take a small boat to enable them to reach the trapped lady and place a rope around her chest.

"Jerry Edwards and a helper were then able to slide Ms. Bickman across the mud to safety. Her granddaughter was then pulled out of the mud in the boat."

Five volunteer firefighters, at least two sheriff's deputies and a number of friends and neighbors of Ms. Bickman were involved in the rescue, Maness said.

"No one was hurt, but we had to hose everybody down after we rescued the lady and her granddaughter," he added.

ON PATROL

PRESCRIPTION FRAUD

Investigator Glenn Strong, director of the Hancock County Metropolitan Narcotics Task Force, reported that two Shoreline Park residents were arrested Wednesday when allegedly one person tampered with a prescription distribution amount and the other person attempted to retrieve the medicine.

Strong said, Marie P. Cox, 31 was arrested at 12:30 p.m. on July 10 and charge with prescription forgery and Jack L. Delle, 54 was arrested that same day at 4:30 p.m. and charge with attempting to obtain a prescription drug by fraud and misrepresentation. The drug in question was Fastin, usually prescribed as a dietary aid, Strong added.

Both Delle and Cox are out of jail, each on a $500 bond. Task Force Investigator Bill Pepperman is in charge of the investigation.

Hit and run driver still at large

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Hancock County Metropolitan Narcotics Task Force director Glen Strong reported Friday that the sheriff's department is still looking for the driver of a metallic blue truck which was seen following a hit and run accident on June 28 which claimed the life of Steven P. Zweisel of Bayside Park.

Strong said, "We (the sheriff's department) have had a good response from the public and ask that they continue their help."

"We have chased down many leads, with no results thus far."

The vehicle was described as a three and a quarter-ton four-wheel-drive vehicle with possibly wire mesh or screen on the back, metallic blue in color with mud grip or dual tires.

Strong said the incident is still under investigation and asked that anyone with any information call the Hancock County Sheriff's Dept. at 467-5101.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Political talk is beginning to surface with the approach of the qualifying deadline.

Deadline to qualify is Friday, July 19 at 5 p.m. for both the Democratic and Republican primaries in Hancock County.

Several of the local candidates are already hitting the campaign trail visiting prospective supporters for the September 17 primary elections.

Those who are newcomers to the area and haven't registered yet need to do so at the Hancock County Courthouse in the Circuit Clerk's office. If you reside in the city of Bay St. Louis or Waveland you can also register at your respective city hall.

I know there are a lot of folks fishing these days from piers and off the seawall, and they should make themselves aware of the regulations on the numbers and sizes of speckled trout and redfish.

One must also remember, there is even a difference in the size of speckled trout which can be caught in Mississippi and Louisiana waters. Mississippi will also have a change in regulations later this month.

I suggest that each fisherman check with the Bureau of Marine Resources or with their tackle store or fishing camp to get the correct regulations.

I just wish those white trout would be abundant like they were 30 or 40 years ago.

Meridian Naval Air Station closure would cause severe loss

There is something happening in Washington that could affect the entire state of Mississippi.

Recently, our attention has been focused on the activity of the federal government's Base Closure Commission as it relates to the possible closure of the Meridian Naval Air Station and the Homeport in Pascagoula.

In the past week, I was able to testify with other elected officials and community leaders before the Base Closure Commission when they visited Meridian. All of us emphasized the importance of these military bases to our state.

I told the commission that I applaud the work of officials and citizens of both cities, in their effort to tell the whole story about the importance of these two bases. And the whole story is that the closure of these facilities would have a grave effect on the entire state.

It would mean the loss of thousands of jobs and a severe blow to the economy to not only two cities, but to the entire area.

In the case of the Meridian Naval Air Station, the members of the military who train at the facility have made excellence a part of their daily duties. It is vital to remember that this is not only a training station for naval pilots; it is also a training center for naval and marine specialists.

Closure of the Meridian base would mean, in addition to the loss of pilot training, the relocation of training facilities for those specialists, which would come at a considerable cost to the federal government.

Mississippi has had a long relationship with the Navy—from Meridian, to the Homeport, to Ingalls Shipyard, which is designing and building a new generation of naval vessels.

Our tradition of excellence was most recently reinforced by the United States' effort in Operation Desert Shield and Desert Storm. Many of the pilots who fought in the Persian Gulf were trained at Meridian Naval Air Station, which has given the people of the city a source of pride in their state and in their country.

Mississippi made a strong contribution to the Persian Gulf conflict in Reserve and Guard strength. Most of those brave men and women are back home now, but the Navy's presence in Mississippi stands year-round, as it has for nearly three decades, as a symbol of America's strength and the contribution that Mississippi can make to that strength.

As Governor, and as a veteran of the United States Navy, I cannot stress the importance of our state's continued involvement in our naval facilities.

Community support for these bases extends all over the state; this is not just a regional issue, it is a statewide issue. We are committed to keeping the Meridian Naval Air Station and the Homeport in Pascagoula open, and our commitment to that goal is stronger now, on the eve of our nation's celebration of Independence Day, than ever before.

Raising the cost of crime

The United States is burdened by an intolerable amount of crime. For too long now, the criminal system has appeared to be more concerned about alleged injustices to the criminal than protecting the rights of the victim.

I firmly believe that most criminals have weighed the course of their actions and know the costs of crime. Therefore, the way to divert criminals from conducting attacks of violence is to raise the costs that they must pay when caught.

The vehicle through which we can begin to raise this cost is the Comprehensive Violent Crime Control Act of 1991.

This act deals with some very important issues that must be reformed in order to strip the United States of its distinction of having more crimes per capita than any other developed country as well as a skyrocketing crime rate.

We need certain areas of the Crime Act so that stronger laws can be written in the justice books. With tougher laws, criminals can be dealt with in a stern and rapid manner.

One major issue in need of reform is the persistent abuse of habeas corpus. This occurs when a criminal is convicted and then sentenced but is able to appeal the decision time and time again.

This must stop. When the sentence is made and the gavel has sounded then the criminal needs to begin paying back the costs owed to society. Appeals should not be tied up for years in state and federal courts which only drains taxpayer dollars and delays criminal protection to all citizens of the United States.

Another complete mockery of the judicial system is the exclusionary law which, believe it or not, allows criminals to be set free because of a technicality in the arrest procedure or investigation involving search and seizure.

Your Bond bears interest at the rate of 2.9% a year, if held to maturity (ten years). Q. Why should I buy Defense Bonds? A. Because money talks. To dictators it speaks defiance. Success crowned every effort of the members of various committees of the Bay St. Louis Woodman of the World in their celebration of the Nation's one hundredth and fortieth birthday, which was held Tuesday on the College campus. Weather conditions were ideal—an invitation to come out. Every Fourth of July it would seem must have its rain—no matter how little, or its touch of squally weather. But this year provided the exception. Nature smiled on the day, even though the more than frowned the day following.

A blow from the northwest struck here Wednesday and damaged the local truck crop to a considerable extent. Trees, fences, outhouses, etc., were blown down by the wind and heavy rain of the day. Slate-covered roofs suffered the most, St. Stanislaus College sustained heavy damage. A washout on the L. & N. between Lake Catherine and the Chef cut off railroad communication with the west and a similar damage at Pascagoula cut off all trains from the east.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Waveland resident lauds Frilot's efforts

Dear Editor,

I think people of Waveland should be proud of the new signs that our mayor has decided to place on the city vehicles, putting the name of our great city in front of everyone to see.

I for one, am overjoyed that our new mayor is not the same old low-profile, one-day-a-week public servant.

By displaying the Waveland emblem on our police and public vehicles, we tell all who see it that we are proud of the city we live in.

I'm not a life-long friend of the mayor, as a matter of fact, I never knew the mayor before she ran for office; but I can tell you this, she has exposed herself to all the ridicule and comments that anyone should have to take and still keeps on trying to improve our city for us. Thanks, Mrs. Mayor.

The three segments are being built in the northern Mississippi Yellow Creek facility in Iuka and the nozzle is being constructed at the Michoud facility in New Orleans East.

The testing stand will have a large roof-type protective covering for inclement weather and climate control.

The covering is not only useful for the comfort of those working, but is necessary, according to projects manager Lon Miller, for testing in temperature extremes.

Upon completion of testing the segments must be broken down and reshipped to their construction areas for changes and alterations in design.

The Stennis facility will be used strictly for data gathering. The NASA intends to test fire the rocket no more than twice a year, beginning in 1994.

Harmon estimates construction of the testing facility to reach its peak Spring of 1992, with an average of 300 workers at any one time.

Hancock workers lead pack in construction

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Employees from Hancock County prevail in number at both major construction sites ongoing within the county. At the Calgon Carbon Corporation plant in the Port Bienville Industrial Park, 26 percent of the workers reside in Hancock County.

At the Advanced Solid Rocket Motors (ASRM) testing site in the John C. Stennis Space Center, 45 percent presently active reside in Hancock County.

National Industrial Constructors Inc. (NIC) of Birmingham, Ala. is the general contractor for the Calgon Carbon plant and the construction management contractor for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) on the ASRM project.

NIC has reported that at the Calgon Carbon plant, 164 people are employed. Aside from Hancock County residents, another 46.5 percent are from other Mississippi counties.

At Stennis, projects manager Lon Miller reports the work on the ASRM testing site is in its beginning stages. He anticipates peak employment to reach 300 this coming spring.

As of Thursday, 64 people were working at the site. Of this number, 29 are from Hancock County, 11 from Pearl River County and four from Harrison County.

Through NIC, six sub-contracts have been awarded for the building of the testing site. Four of these are Mississippi companies.

NASA reports to have 14 sub-contracts left to be solicited for bids: two in August, four in September, four in October, two in December, one in February and the last in May.

NIC also states that at the Calgon Carbon plant it employs four area contractors, Hayes Electric, Yates Construction, Roy Anderson and W.C. Fore.

As a corporation, NIC claims to direct its hiring through the state job service offices and whenever possible give preference to local applications.

mission investigator Bruce Nourse, appointed earlier this week, and said Walker assured the association members that the commission would begin the process to issue gaming licenses in the near future.

"It was a real positive meeting. We were told that as soon as the commission gets the rules and regulations ready, they will get going on the licenses."

Allyson Keller mentioned that Walker will be in Bay St. Louis July 24 to conduct gaming facility site inspections and meet with the T&GA.

Concerning riverboat gambling in Louisiana, association member Charles Lambert of Bay Cove Harbour said, "This is not any time to be confused. We don't need to worry about what they're doing in Louisiana."

Lambert encouraged the association to continue with its efforts to draw people into the area through endorsing restoration of the Amtrak commuter train service and finding ways to maximize local resources.

Jim Maness, chief of the Clermont Harbor/Lakeshore Fire Protection District, reminded the association that the board of supervisors plans to ask for a local and private bill identical to the one passed by the legislature on behalf of the City of Bay St. Louis. That bill allows the city to levy a boarding fee of $2.50/person and a $100 machine/game tax.

Maness told the association that the district will negotiate with the board of supervisors for a percentage of the fees and taxes levied, so the department will be able to buy the equipment needed to provide fire protection for gaming boats.

"The district is charged with the protection of those boats. The equipment needed is very expensive, and we will also probably need to hire three full-time firefighters."

Another consideration is the district's fire rating. Maness said the district is working to lower its rating, which will save district residents money on their fire insurance. "If we cannot provide the protection to the ships other than potential loss of life, then we lose our fire insurance rating."

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire-Caire

Let's celebrate the glorious fruits of summer, especially while they're at or near their peak of tastiness and juiciness and while our area supermarkets are offering good prices on so many of them.

Watermelon, ever so ripely-red and sweet, is a price choice, with whole watermelons as well as halves and quarters available for your choosing.

Cantaloupes and honeydews are also offered; and the peaches and nectarines and grapes are in good supply. Juicy Florida limes are also available, all of the fruits quite tasty these humid days. I usually have a bowl of cut-up fresh fruit in the refrigerator, with lemon or lime juice dribbled over to prevent darkening of the fruit. I devour the fruit, by itself or atop my breakfast cereal, or atop ice cream or sherbert or frozen yogurt, a real summertime treat!

For an easy summertime dish, with a bit more effort than just my favorite ice-cold watermelon slices, is this salad. Here's:

MOLDED WATERMELON SALAD

3 1/2 cups seeded, diced watermelon
2 Tbsp. sugar
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
1/3 cup finely chopped celery
1/4 cup dairy sour cream
2 tsp. sugar
Lettuce leaves

Place the watermelon in a blender container or food processor bowl. Cover and blend until smooth (should have 1 1/4 cups). In a saucepan, combine the 2 tablespoons sugar and the gelatin.

Add 1/2 cup of the watermelon puree. Heat and stir until gelatin dissolves. Remove from heat, stir in remaining puree and the lemon juice. Chill until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Fold in celery.

Turn into a 3-cup mold and chill until set. Stir together sour cream and 2 teaspoons sugar. Unmold salad onto lettuce-lined plate. Pass sour cream mixture. (4 servings)

This is quite colorful served on fresh spinach leaves, also—from "Better Homes and Gardens" magazine files.

Speaking of lettuce, it's a bargain in the markets these days, iceberg as well as Boston lettuce and other varieties. And you might pick up an assortment of fresh vegetables from the colorful array in the bins.

Carrots are low-priced; tomatoes are down somewhat in price and jumbo sweet red onions and yellow onions are in good supply.

Check out the new red potatoes and baking potatoes, also, and don't pass up that sweet yellow corn. You may want to try to savor this tasty corn recipe from the "Chicago Tribune Cookbook" (Chicago Review Press) and the editors tell us that "When Marcia Lythcott, a Tribune editor, cooked up this family favorite in the Tribune test kitchen, the smoky, rich corn disappeared faster than a double layer chocolate cake!" Try this recipe, and see if that doesn't happen in your kitchen, too. Here's:

BACON-FRIED CORN

9 strips bacon, diced
1 large onion chopped
4 cups fresh corn kernels
1 red bell pepper, seeded and chopped
2 Tbsp. minced fresh parsley
1 Tbsp. milk
Salt, freshly ground pepper to taste

1. Cook bacon in large heavy-bottomed skillet over medium heat until bacon is crisp. Remove bacon with slotted spoon. Reserve.

2. Add onion to bacon fat; cook and stir until crisp-tender, about 4 minutes. Add corn and red pepper. Cook and stir until corn is crisp-tender, about 5 minutes. Stir in parsley, milk, salt and pepper. Garnish with bacon pieces. (4 servings)

Catfish, whole catfish or fillets or nuggets, are a good buy, as are chicken breast quarters and leg quarters. In the pork department, quarter loins, sliced into chops, are a bargain. As for beef, boneless rump and sirloin tip roasts are stand-out buys, as are boneless rib eyes, along with beef chuck roasts and steaks; and there's good stew beef cuts and "chuck tenders" as well. Lots from which to choose! And, enjoy!

Into the rubble

Early morning fire ruins child's birthday

BY TRACI BONNEY

Meagan Necaise's second birthday wasn't very happy.

Around 2 a.m. Wednesday, she and her mother Gloria were awakened by the sound of the smoke alarm going off in their trailer on Firetower Road. Mrs. Necaise quickly discovered that the kitchen area was on fire.

She and the toddler were alone in the house. Mrs. Necaise's five-year-old son Samuel was staying with his grandparents. Her husband Neil is working offshore in Africa.

Mrs. Necaise said, "Meagan's bedroom is in the opposite end of the trailer from mine. I had to run through the flames to get to her."

Fortunately, neither Mrs. Necaise nor her daughter was injured during the fire, which gutted the trailer and burned two three-wheelers and a four-wheeler parked outside.

County fire marshal Jay Marsh and a deputy state fire marshal investigated the fire Thursday, but the cause has not been determined yet. Marsh said when firefighters from Kiln, Fenton and Post 58 responded, much of the fire seemed to be concentrated around the washer/dryer and kitchen.

Mrs. Necaise said her family lost all their belongings in the fire. "We're slowly getting back together," she added.

Incest survivor plans to start local recovery group

BY TRACI BONNEY

Incest: it can take several forms, but all are devastating to the emotional, mental, spiritual and sometimes physical well-being of the victim.

Incest Survivors Anonymous, a 12-step-based self-help recovery group, defines incest as a betrayal of trust in overt and covert sexual contact or act which may include touching or non-touching, verbal seduction or abuse, intercourse, oral sex, sodomy, manual stimulation, direct threats or other abuse.

According to ISA, this abuse occurs between people who are related either by genetics, marriage or living arrangements, between a child and a person that child trusts or a person who has power over a child by either social standing or employment. This can include relatives, family friends, babysitters, teachers or just about any professional the child encounters.

The ISA definition of incest states: "When this trust between a child and an older child, sibling, parent-figure or adult is violated, that act becomes incestuous."

"We put full responsibility on the initiator for whatever took place."

"The child's age may range from conception, new born, pre-school, school age, teenager and older."

Simply put, incest is any form of sexual abuse between a child and someone close or familiar to her/him who has some sort of power or authority over the child. Anything — a look, a remark, a touch or a sexual act — that an authority figure says or does to a child for the authority figure's own sexual gratification can be considered incest.

This abuse also often involves swearing the child to secrecy and threatening harm to the child or someone close to her/him if the child tells what happened.

According to counselor/authors John Bradshaw, Charles L. Whitfield M.D., and others, incest victims may suffer in many ways from their victimization, including: inability to trust, promiscuity, prostitution, suicidal feelings, dissociation ("numbing out" or shutting off emotions), low self-esteem, depression, multiple personality disorders, substance abuse, overeating, psychosomatic illnesses, multiple marriages or abusive relationships.

Surviving incest can be traumatic, but for those who do survive, there is a road to recovery.

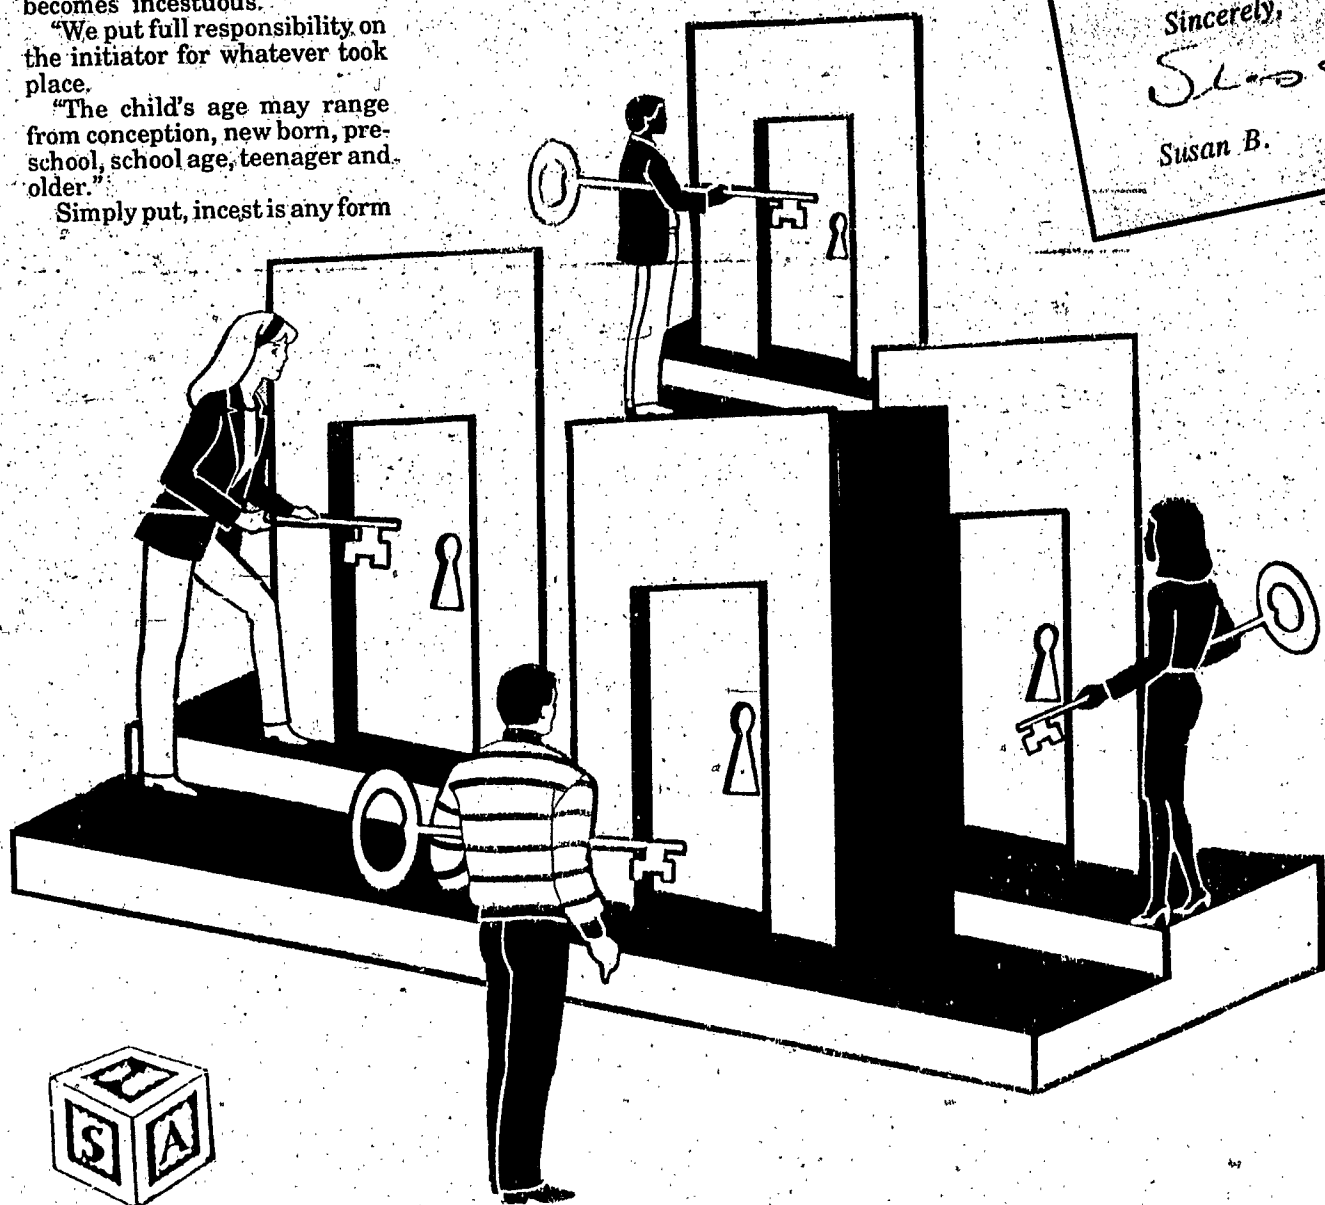

Groups like ISA give survivors an opportunity to deal with, resolve and overcome the hurts dealt to them in childhood.

Currently, there is no local incest recovery group. But that

Dear Friend,
My name is Susan and I am a survivor of incest. Incest is that terrible thing that no one wants to believe could happen in their family. It is defined as sexual relations between persons too closely related to be married. More broadly stated, this includes stepfathers, brothers, uncles or anyone in an authoritative role. It does not have to lead to actual intercourse to be considered incest. The results are still devastating. Some statistics say as many as one in nine adults has experienced a form of incest. Although most cases are reported by women, many men have also been victimized as children but are less likely to report it. Statistics also indicate that Hancock County is sixth in the state in the incidence of child sexual abuse. Look around you; your neighbor, a co-worker, a relative or a friend may be a survivor of incest. That survivor may be you. If you are a survivor of incest, you no longer have to carry this heavy burden alone. Do not blame yourself. It is not your fault. You could not cause the abuse and you could not stop it. I invite you to come to the Incest Survivors Anonymous Group (ISA). This is a 12-step support group where you can share your feelings with others who understand, who have been where you have been and know your pain. All meetings are confidential. There are no dues or fees. The group is autonomous and not affiliated with any religious group, sect or organization. If you have any questions, please call me at 466-3459.

Sincerely,

will change, if incest survivor Susan B. has her way.

Susan began to look for a recovery group last year when the costs of private counseling started to stack up, but quickly found out there is no group within a 100-mile radius that fit her needs.

"There are some groups in New Orleans, but they are not 12-step based," she explained.

She referred to the 12-step program for recovery instituted by Alcoholics Anonymous which has become the basis for other recovery programs such as Narcotics Anonymous and ISA. In the course of that program, the survivor goes through a process of admitting she is powerless over incest; asking God (as she understands him) to take over her life and remove all character defects and shortcomings; making amends, where possible, to people she has harmed; continuing to make a personal inventory and promptly admitting when she is wrong; seeking an improved relationship with her God through meditation and prayer; and taking the healing message she receives to other incest survivors.

Although most reports of incest are from women, many men are victims as well. ISA is designed to help any survivor, regardless of gender.

Susan commented, "There is a need for a group of this type in the area. The statistics I have from the Exchange Clubs Family Child Center state that Hancock County is sixth in Mississippi for the number of child abuse cases. Many of those cases are sexual abuse."

She said the group she wants to start will be open only to survivors. No perpetrators, not even those who were once victims themselves, will be allowed in the meetings.

She explained, "In a meeting, the survivors are very vulnerable. It's dangerous to bring a perpetrator into such a setting."

Susan hopes to hold the first ISA meeting later this month. She said no dues or fees are required.

Those interested in finding out more about ISA may call Susan at 466-3459.

Free seminar offered on wills, estates

Like insurance, by the time you need a will, it's too late to prepare one. Most of us would prefer to think we have plenty of time to take care of this important phase of our finances.

If you do not have a valid will, the State of Mississippi will divide your assets based on existing laws. Knowing what steps you can take to assure your estate is handled according to your wishes will give you and your family peace of mind.

A program on wills and estate planning will be presented Thursday, July 18, noon to 1 p.m. at Hancock Medical Center and will be taught by attorney Tripp Barnes.

The free program is co-sponsored as a community service by Hancock Medical Center and Hancock County Extension Service. To register, call 467-5456.

The groom's mother wore a soft peach colored two-piece suit with long tapered sleeves and rhinestone buttons over a slim skirt. A corsage of ivory roses trimmed with peach ribbon was worn on her wrist.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club. Music was provided by the bride's uncle's band, "Catch of the Day."

For traveling, Mrs. Griffin chose a silk two-piece dress with matching shoes and purse. After a honeymoon trip to Astroworld and Waterworld in Houston, Texas, the couple will make their home in Vancleave.

Pre-nuptial parties

In May, an engagement party-barbecue was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hille at their home.

A bridal shower was given in June at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wadsworth with the bride's sisters, Helene Ederer and Carla Stocks as hostesses.

A bridesmaids' tea was given by Mrs. James Thrifley III at Court Street Cuisine.

On the eve of the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Griffin Sr. hosted a rehearsal dinner at the Ramada Inn in Long Beach for the bridal party and family.

District 30-N Governor James Smith installed the following officers: Lucille Boudreaux, president; Raymond Rome, first vice president; Charles Berthelot, second vice president; Russell Sutton, third vice president; Eula Rome, secretary; Randall Tartavouille, treasurer; Mark Moore, tail twister; and Samuel Blanchard, lion tamer.

Also installed were two-year board members Judy Poolson and Cindy Adams; one-year board members Mark Moore and Mike Adams; membership chairman Wanda Berthelot and her committee, John Poolson and Valerie Sutton.

Master of ceremonies was Raymond Rome. The invocation was given by the Rev. Van Carpenter. The closing was offered by Lt. Gov. James Schrock.

Guest speakers were Past District Governor Bob Talley and Waveland Mayor Stella Frilot.

Retiring president Eula Rome offered a summary of the club's activities and achievements of the past year and thanked all the members for their support.

President Lucille Boudreaux outlined her goals for the club for the coming year.

Special guests were Past International Director B. M. Stone and his wife Ruth; Kathleen Talley, wife of Past District Governor Bob Talley; Dianne Smith, wife of District Governor James Smith and their three children;

Charlene Schrock, wife of Lt. Governor James Schrock; Billy and Carol Pigott, John and Helen Wilson; Roger and Angela Myers; Robert and Marzelle Caffer; John and Marzella Palmer and their two grandchildren.

Lioness President Barbara Kingston and her husband Irvin; Pat, Carol and Tommy Cheney; Jim and Charlotte Edwards; Tommy and Alice Spiers; Janice Carver, president of American Legion Auxiliary Post 77 and her husband Roy; members of the Southwest Mississippi Lioness Club and others.

Awards were given to the outgoing officers, and certificates of appreciation were given to many members of the community who have helped the club this past year.

The Lion of the Year award was given to Lucille Boudreaux.

Twelve members received perfect attendance pins. Tommy Cheney gave a report on his trip to Brisbane, Australia, with the Mississippi Lions all State Band. The band placed second in the competition among bands from around the world.

Ray Rome presented Cheney with a ceremonial check in the amount of $1,246, the total amount raised by the Hancock County Lions Club.

During the club's installation, a time was given for a special celebration of the local chapter's 10th anniversary.

Past International Director B. M. Stone gave a speech on Lionism. He reminded guests a circle is sometimes a group or club having common interests or activities on a large or small scale.

As he called the members of the Hancock County Lions Club by name, each placed a gold or purple carnation on his circle to show a club working together and bound by a common tie in Lionism. A delicious meal was served, and a cake, depicting the Lions emblem was enjoyed.

Appointed to the District Governor's cabinet were Raymond Rome, regional chairman; Eula Rome, zone chairman, and Lucille Boudreaux, environmental chairman.

Department of Wildlife,
Fisheries and Parks
Bureau of Marine Resources
PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission is requesting that an adjustment to the Coastal Wetlands Use Plan as contained in the Mississippi Coastal Program be made to allow the construction of an industrial discharge structure in Mulatto Bayou. The proposed structure will carry permitted effluent from the Calgon Carbon Corporation plant located in the Port Bienville Industrial Park. In order for the project to proceed, the designation of a portion of Mulatto Bayou must be changed from a Preservation District to an Industrial Use District.

The proposed area to be changed would be a corridor 100' wide extending across Mulatto Bayou and ending on the Bayou's south bank. The corridor would be adjacent to property owned by General Electric Plastics in Section 2, Township 7 South, Range 18 West and is commonly known as the Jackson Landing area. A public hearing to receive comments on the proposed adjustment will be held on July 17, 1991, at 7:00 p.m. in the Hancock County Courthouse, Board of Supervisors Room. The Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks/Bureau of Marine Resources will receive written hearing comments until July 22, 1991. Comments should be addressed to the Bureau of Marine Resources, 2620 Beach Blvd., Biloxi, MS 39531, attention Gary J. Cuevas. For additional information, please contact the Bureau at the above address or by calling extension (801) 385-5680.
